ITALY SURRENDERS UNCONDITIONALLY

To Oppose Attacks from "Any Other Quarter"

ITALY HAS SURRENDERED TO THE ALLIES. IN A DRAMATIC ANNOUNCEMENT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, GENERAL DWIGHT EISENHOWER, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF, ALLIED FORCES, STATED:—

"The Italian Government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally. As Allied C.-in-C., I have granted a Military Armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the Governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the U.S.S.R. I am thus acting in the interests of the United Nations.

"The Italian Government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation.

"The Armistice was signed by my representative and the representative of Marshal Badoglio, and becomes effective this instant. Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once.

"All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressor from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations."

"MILITARY INSTRUMENT"

An announcement of Italy's surrender from 10 Downing street stated:—

"The United Nations will recognise in this event a further signal weakening of the Axis forces.

"The armistice is strictly a military instrument, signed by the military authorities, and does not include political, financial and economic terms, which will be imposed later.

"Furthermore, it is evident that the present position does not permit of a public announcement of the contents of the military document signed in these circumstances. It is not, therefore, at present proposed to alter the date of the meeting of Parliament, but the Prime Minister expects to be in a position to make a full statement to Parliament at its re-assembly."

BADOGLIO PROCLAMATION

The text of a proclamation made by Marshal Badoglio was broadcast from Allied H.Q. It said:—

"The Italian Government, recognising the impossibility of continuing the unequal struggle against the overwhelming power of the enemy, with the object of avoiding further more grievous harm to the nation, has requested an armistice from General Eisenhower, Commander-in-Chief of the Anglo-American Allied forces.

"This request has been granted.

"The Italian forces will, therefore, cease all acts of hostility against the Anglo-American forces, wherever they may be met. They, however, will oppose attacks from any other quarter."

How World Heard of Surrender

FIRST news of the surrender of Italy from a German source was given by the German News Agency in its European service shortly before 8.30 last night, reports Reuter.

The Agency said that Germany had already taken precautionary measures for the continuation of the war until victory by Germany and her allies.

The news was immediately conveyed to Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt at the White House in Washington. It was evidently the news for which Mr. Churchill had been waiting in Washington so long. Presumably, he will now extend his stay to discuss with the President the aftermath of Badoglio's capitulation. Mr. Roosevelt was working at his desk when news of Italy's surrender was brought to him. He said: "It is Eisenhower's story; let him tell it."

Washington was agog last night with reports that another "big news break" is imminent. Huge crowds besieged the news stands as special editions of the newspapers appeared on the streets of the capital.

CROWDS CHEER

On New York's Broadway showers of ticker tape descended from the windows of skyscrapers upon the heads of crowds. Thousands massed in Times Square cheered wildly. In Italian quarters crowds danced in the cafés and pavements, shouting "Viva, Viva."

Observers in New York stated that immediate repercussions may be expected in the Balkans, where Italy has between 10 and 15 divisions (from 120,000 to 180,000 men) on police work. These will have to be replaced by Germans, throwing a further burden on the Reich's manpower.—(Reuter.)

Arrangements to send relief coal to Italy have been planned in Britain for weeks past.

Problem of Release of Prisoners

IMMEDIATE release of, roughly, 80,000 British prisoners of war in Italian hands will, unquestionably, be one of the prior conditions imposed, says Reuter.

Recent reports indicate that altogether there are about fifty camps housing British prisoners.

Some of the camps are within or near the line of the River Po, where the Germans have recently been concentrating several divisions. There are, roughly, 400,000 Italian prisoners of war, 300,000 of whom surrendered up to the fall of Tunisia, the others being taken in Sicily.

General Smuts told Reuter yesterday: "Following the news from Russia of the fall of Stalino and other important centres, the unconditional surrender of Italy comes as a new phase in the war, from which very important results are sure to follow."

General Smuts said that on the position of South African prisoners of war nothing could be said at present. "The position of the Italian prisoners we hold is, however, straightforward. Because Italy's surrender was unconditional, their status remains unchanged. In other words, they remain our prisoners of war."—(Reuter.)

No Telephones in Operation

German Overseas Radio stated last night that all telephone communication between Berlin and Italy has been severed.

The report added that the Italians refused to accept urgent calls by way of Budapest or Zurich.

Well-informed German Foreign Office circles understood that the German Government had not been informed of the surrender.—(Reuter.)

Armistice Signed Six Days Ago

A special broadcast from Allied Headquarters after General Eisenhower's announcement stated that the Armistice was signed on September 3, but that it was agreed it would come into force at the moment most favourable to the Allies. "That moment has arrived," it said.

The broadcast, telling of the negotiations which led up to the Armistice, said:—

"Some weeks ago the Italian Government made an approach to the British and American Governments with a view to concluding an Armistice. A meeting was arranged, and took place on neutral territory. It was at once explained to the representatives of the Italian Government that they must surrender unconditionally.

SICILY TALKS

"On this understanding the representatives of the Allied Commander-in-Chief were empowered to communicate to them the military conditions which they would have to fulfil. One clause in these military terms binds the Italian Government to comply with political, economic and financial conditions of the Allies which will be imposed later.

"Further meetings were arranged and took place in Sicily. The possibility of a German move to forestall publication of the Armistice by the Italian Government was discussed during the negotiations. To meet this eventuality it was agreed that one of the senior Italian military representatives should not return to Rome. He is now in Sicily.

"Further, Marshal Badoglio arranged to send the text of his proclamation to Allied Headquarters."

The statement given over Rome Radio was read by Badoglio himself and was identical with that issued from Allied Headquarters, Badoglio's proclamation was issued by the Italian News Agency at 7.25 p.m. It was the first news given out by the Agency on the surrender of the Italian armed forces.

Nothing was forthcoming in London last night about the future of Signor Mussolini, states the Press Association, but it is thought improbable that he would have been the subject of any negotiation—at any rate, at this stage. Meanwhile Mussolini remains technically a prisoner of the Italian Government. As soon as the war ends the larger questions of war guilt will, of course, have to be settled.

Algiers Radio announced that the Italian people were informed of the surrender of their Government by radio and by leaflets. One clause of the armistice binds the Italian Government to the political creed of the United Nations.

There is not likely to be a formal proclamation of peace with Italy for some time yet. It can be assumed that the Mediterranean Commission formed by Britain, America and Russia, is already functioning actively since Italy's surrender was arranged nearly a week ago. Authoritative quarters are highly gratified that events are moving with the full approval of Marshal Stalin. This is regarded as the best augury for future relations between Moscow and the Western Allies yet noted.—(Reuter and Press Association.)

Germans to Hold Line in North Italy

MILITARY observers in Washington, says Reuter, expect the Germans, despite Italy's surrender, to persist in their plan of holding Northern Italy along the line of the Po River. They are reported to have between 15 and 20 divisions there.

Whatever the new drain on manpower, the view is taken that the Germans cannot lightly surrender the approaches to the Brenner Pass. If that is the case, speculation centres on whether the Allies, after securing the whole of Central and Southern Italy, will attempt a direct assault, or try to circumvent Hitler's defences.

The Germans have established strong guards at all key positions of track and railway along the Spezia-Po line.

Germany has been estimated to have 17 to 18 divisions on Italian soil at the moment—and most of them have been digging in on a line across Northern Italy from Spezia to the mouth of the Po, writes Reuter's Military Correspondent. During the battle for Sicily Germany had three divisions in the island.

"BETRAYAL"

German radio, in its overseas programme last night, said: "Since the criminal attempt on the Duce on July 25, and the riots which were prepared in connivance with the British and Americans, leading to the liquidation of the Fascist Government loyal to the alliance with Germany, the German Government had been prepared for this open betrayal by the Italian Government. They have, therefore, taken all necessary military precautions.

"The criminal attempt against the defenders of Europe will finally fail in the same way as all other similar undertakings have failed."

In the 24 hours before Italy's surrender Allied forces struck four heavy blows:—

1—Heavy air raid on Rome's suburbs at noon yesterday (reported by Italian News Agency);

2—New Allied landing 40 miles further north on Italy's toe—reported in German High Command communiqué;

3—Renewed attacks on key points in the Naples area;

4—Eighteen more miles of coast gained by the Eighth Army's twin drives along the coasts of Calabria.

The reported raid on the Rome area was the first since the city was declared "open" by the Italians. Localities said to have been bombed yesterday are Frescati, Colonno, Gottaferrata, Lanuvio and Velletri, lying from 10 to 15 miles from the heart of the city. All are on railway lines running to the south.

Though a few pockets of Axis resistance remain to be cleared up, one can now fairly say that the Aspromonte mountain mass, which forms the toe of Italy, is in the Eighth Army's hands. Along the whole of the Eighth Army front Italian soldiers are constantly coming in to surrender.

The Germans stated that the new landing in the Gulf of Eufemia was made on Tuesday night and that the landing forces had been attacked since early morning from all sides.

In the past 24 hours the Eighth Army advanced along the southern tip of the "toe" to Bova Marina, 10 miles east of Melito. On the western side they reached the River Petrice and a point five miles north-east of Palmi. Some Axis opposition was met in this drive.

Right up to the last the Allied air fleets continued what appeared to be a softening up of the Naples area.

The German News Agency said that the Allied troops who landed in the Gulf of Eufemia comprised four or five infantry battalions. "Obviously their task is to cut off the retreat of the German covering troops to the south and south-west of their positions," the report added.

In three years of war Italy has lost more than 1,000,000 of her best fighting soldiers, an empire ten times her own size, the greater part of her navy and much of her air force.—(Reuter.)

Control By A Military Commission

PRESUMABLY, Italy will be placed under a United Nations' Military Commission, and it is possible that the actual administration of the country under that Commission will be conducted by the Italians themselves, states the Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent.

There is every desire that the Commission should be at work as quickly as possible, the correspondent adds.

Mr. Churchill stated in the House of Commons shortly after the fall of Mussolini—"Our armies bring, if the Italian people so decide, relief from the war, freedom from servitude, and, after an interval, a respectable place in the new and rescued Europe."

The terms of the military armistice and the full terms of surrender cannot yet be made known. Before Italy's downfall was publicly announced yesterday, Mr. Eden, British Foreign Secretary, saw Mr. Maisky, Russia's Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs and former Ambassador in London. Immediately afterwards Mr. Eden saw the Chinese Ambassador and other Allied Foreign Ministers in London.

Fleet's Future

Allied naval sources, speculating on the disposition of the Italian Fleet, said the Allies have an excellent chance of obtaining intact all the remaining units of this still powerful navy.

It was stated that the Germans have no means in the Mediterranean area, apart from air attack, with which to seek out and attempt to destroy the Italian Fleet to prevent its possible use by the Allies. It is generally believed in these naval quarters that the Italian Navymen will not try to scuttle their ships. Various units may well turn themselves over to the Allies.

Italy's capitulation will have an immense influence upon the disposable strength of the British Fleet; for it will virtually release Allied capital ships for service in other waters.

When last reported dispositions of the Italian Fleet were:—

West Coast:—Genoa—Three 6in. cruisers. Spezzia—Three Littorio battleships, two 6in. cruisers, one 5.3 cruiser, one 8in. cruiser under repair.

Gulf of Taranto and Adriatic—Taranto—Two Cavour battleships, one 6in. cruiser and two 5.3 cruisers. Trieste and Pola—One Cavour battleship at each place.—(Reuter and P.A.).

By a decree signed last Thursday Herr Hitler has ordered a complete reorganisation of the German war industry, and made Albert Speer Minister for Armaments, war production chief for the duration of the war.

Instructions to Troops in the Balkans

An official broadcast last night by a representative of Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, C.-in-C. in the Middle East, told the Italian armed forces in the Balkans and Ægean Sea to cease all hostile acts, resist the Germans and take possession by force of all points occupied by the Germans in the Dodecanese.

The announcement stated:—"Your Government has signed an armistice and the war between Italy and the United Nations is over.

"Conforming with the armistice conditions, I give the following orders, which must immediately be complied with by all members of the Italian armed forces in the Balkans and Ægean.

"Firstly, all hostile acts towards the population of the countries in which you are must cease forthwith.

"Secondly every unit must maintain strictest discipline and keep its actual formations.

"Thirdly, every attempt by Germans or their satellites to disarm or disband Italian forces, to take possession of their arms, stores, petrol and water or points in which they are situated, must be resisted by force of arms.

"All German orders will be disregarded."—(Reuter.)

100 Airfields Open to Allies

An Associated Press War Correspondent at Allied Headquarters states:—Italy's surrender opens to the Allied air forces at least 100 good airfields and satellite landing grounds in Central and Southern Italy, from which all the German-occupied Balkans, all Austria and a large part of Germany would be within easy range of big Allied bombers.

Tremendous possibilities of intensifying the air war on the Reich, particularly in daylight, are opened up. Italy has her finest airfields in the north. With these as Allied bases, the whole of industrial Southern Germany would not only be a target area for big bombers, but within very comfortable range of British and American medium bomber fleets.

Radio Call to Italian Ships at Sea

A MESSAGE to all Italian sailors and seamen was broadcast last night by Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, Allied C.-in-C., Mediterranean. It stated:—

"Sailors of the Italian Navy and of the Italian merchant fleet,—Your country has ceased hostilities against the United Nations. The German armed forces are now openly hostile to the Italian people, whom they have so often betrayed.

"They intend to seize your ships, which are urgently needed. They will have to collaborate in the transport of food supplies to Italy. Your warships will have to help in protecting these transports against German attacks.

"Look to it, therefore, that you do not scuttle your ships and do not allow them to be captured. The forces of the United Nations are on the watch to receive and to protect you. Save your ships by following the directions we are giving you in the name of the United Nations.

"Ships in the Mediterranean—Sail to a place safe from interference by the German armed forces. Sail, if you can, to North Africa or Gibraltar, to Sicily or Malta, to Haifa or Alexandria, to await there the outcome of events.

"Ships in the Black Sea—Sail to Russian ports. If you have not the fuel to do this, then proceed to neutral ports. When you meet forces of the United Nations identify yourselves by day by flying a large black or dark blue pennant from the main mast, and by showing large circular markings on your decks as identification for aircraft.

NIGHT SIGNALS

"By night darkened ships should use navigation lights and flash the letters G. A.

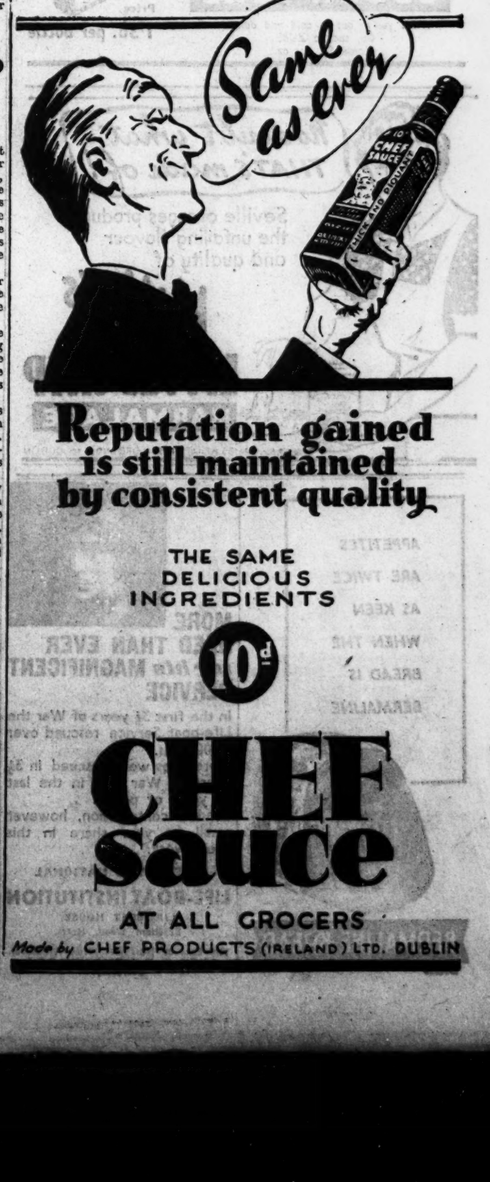

"Merchant seamen—If you just preserve your ships intact, and afterwards satisfy the authorities of the United Nations that you will loyally co-operate with them, there will be opportunities for further sea-going employment for you in Italian ships.

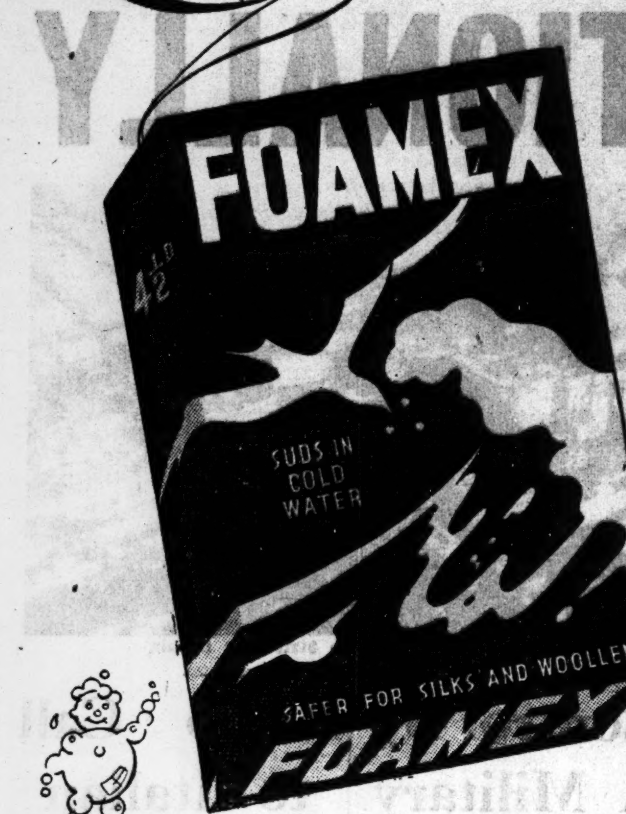

"Those of you who are in the Ægean or the Black Sea, who cannot make good your escape from the Germans, who are now your enemies, do not let your ships fall into their hands. In the last resort scuttle them or sabotage them, rather than let them fall into the hands of the Germans to use against Italy."—(Reuter.)

Reward Offer to Danes

General von Hanneken, Commander-in-Chief of the German forces in Denmark, has offered rewards up to 20,000 kronen (about £1,000) to Danes to denounce railway saboteurs, says the German News Agency.—(Reuter.)

Whole Donetz Basin Recovered

Red Army 40 Miles Past Stalino

FOLLOWING the capture of Stalino, the Red Army, with the whole of the Donetz Basin in its possession, had last night pushed on 40 miles beyond Stalino and captured the important railway town of Krasnoarmeiskoe, on the Donbas-Kiev railway.

The Donetz Basin, industrial heart of the Ukraine, occupying 50,000 square miles, is served by a dense network of railways. Normally it produced half the coal, half the iron and one-third of the chemicals of the whole Soviet Union.

Last night Moscow heard 20 salvoes from 224 guns to mark what is probably the greatest victory of the whole Russian summer offensive—the recapture of the great Donetz Basin.

The victory was announced in an Order of the Day from Marshal Stalin, which officially recorded the capture of Stalino and a number of other Donbas towns.

Earlier Berlin had announced that Stalino had been evacuated in order to avoid a Russian break-through.

MOST IMPORTANT

Stalino, which had a pre-war population of 200,000, is not only the hub of the dense railway sysetm of the Donetz Basin, it is one of the most important mining and steel centres of the Ukraine.

In the Northern Ukraine Russian forces have taken Borzna, 15 miles beyond the key rail junction of Bakhmach and about a third of the way to the provincial capital of Chernigov, in the bend of the Desna River—last natural defence line before the Middle Dnieper.

Russian troops now stand three miles north-west of Bakhmach at Cheshokovka, while other forces are advancing beyond Kalinovka, six miles east of this central hinge of the Gomel - Kremenchug railway. Bakhmach itself is under constant fire from Russian guns.

Last night's Soviet communiqué reported an advance of 9 to 12 miles in the Donbas, where the Red Army is, apparently, advancing along the Donbas-Kiev railway on a broad front.

A second Russian force, said Harold King, Reuter's Special Correspondent in Moscow, is driving on the Azov port of Mariupol. Between these two forces the whole 125-mile German front is being rolled up.

The Central and Western front south of Bryansk now forms one continuous fighting line, with the Russians—since the capture of Navlya—in possession of virtually the whole railway line from Bryansk to Konotop. Driving westwards from this railway along a 50-mile front, the Red Army is pursuing a great outflanking movement south from Bryansk and the surrounding forest, and pressing forward towards the middle reaches of the Desna River.

The Red Air Force is systematically attacking another important point on the Germans' lateral communications, Unecha, where the Bryansk-Gomel Railway crosses the line to Leningrad.

Stiffest resistance is in the Kharkov region, where the danger to the whole German position in the Ukraine and the Crimea is greatest. Progress here has been slower, but front despatches say that the Red Army is now coming up against defence lines less well fortified than those nearer Kharkov. This is significant, for it means that the Germans are being squeezed out of their extensive, prepared positions and forced to fight in hastily-dug trenches. On the other hand, reports emphasise that the concentration of German fire power here is considerable.

SAVED GERMANY

The German retreat from the Donbas has prevented a Russian break-through, which would have decided the issue of the war, said Captain Sertorius, Military Commentator of the German Overseas News Agency, last night. He stated that Russian attempts to cut off the German forces—between Stalino and the Sea of Azov had been foiled by the German "elastic defence."

"The important thing," he said, "is that the German front between Krosnograd and Lozovaya is unbroken. This is foiling the enemy's aim of breaking through with an army group to the great Dnieper knee, and getting behind the German disengaging movement in the Donetz basin.

The Russian offensive is proving "almost too much for the strength of our troops," says an eastern front despatch to the Berlin "12-Uhr Blatt," quoted by the Nya Dagligt Allehanda.

The German despatch says:—"Our divisions are encircled, broken into, and weary. Nevertheless, they are still ready to counter-attack at any time, and are holding a firm, though elastic, front."

SOVIET CLAIMS

The towns claimed captured yesterday by the Russians in their 12-mile advance in the Donetz Basin include:—Krasno-Armeiskoe, an important railway town, 30 miles north-west of Stalino, on the line from the Donbas through Dnepropetrovsk to Kiev; Yasinovataya, 14 miles north-east of Stalino; Avdeevka, 10 miles north of Stalino, on the Donbas-Kiev Railway; Silidovka, 20 miles north-west of Stalino, and 10 miles south-east of Krasno-Armeiskoe.

A Committee has been set up in Berlin to enquire into the causes of the German defeats in Russia, says a Stockholm message to the Soviet News Agency.

Big Beet Crop May Mean More Sugar for All

Are we going to get more sugar? The beet crop has been so good—an acreage of 80,000—that it is likely that we are, and, although no definite statement has been made to the effect, it is hoped that the sugar ration will be increased in December.

The 80,000 acreage is a "record," and in yield and sugar content it is, according to the result of tests, as good as the best in the past. In the present campaign deliveries will begin in the first week in October and manufacturing less than a week later. The four sugar factories will then be faced with the greatest manufacturing period in their history.

The Great Southern Railways Company have completed their arrangements for the transport of beet and pulp. Already 50,000 growers have received permits entitling them to a sugar allowance, the maximum of which is four stones, under their contracts, and almost all have qualified for the maximum.

The greatest beet acreage before the present was 78,000, which yielded 675,000 tons of sugar in 1941.

Second Front Call at T.U.C.

Probably the most remarkable demonstration that has been witnessed at the British Trade Union Congress for many years marked the close of the speech at Southport yesterday of Mr. N. M. Shvernik, leader of the delegation of Russian trade union delegates.

His reference to the urgent necessity for the opening of a second front on the continent of Europe was frantically applauded.

The Soviet people accepted with heartfelt gratitude the assistance they had received in material and armaments, but could not, he said, regard individual offensive operations or the bombing of Germany's industrial districts as a second front.

The Russian delegates occupied seats on the platform and were obviously delighted with the warmth of their welcome. Mr. Shvernik spoke for two hours.

German Gains Were "Little"

Thanks to Russia's "scorched earth" policy, the wrecking of plant and machinery, and the "inefficiency" of conscripted Russian workers, Germany gained little economically by her conquests in the East and in the Ukraine, said a British Ministry of Economic Warfare spokesman yesterday.

The Donetz Basin produced 90 million tons of coal a year, or 60 per cent. of Soviet supplies. Owing to the Russian destruction of equipment and Germany's grave manpower and transport difficulties the yield, under German rule, went down to one-tenth of normal Germany probably needed 5,000,000 tons for the occupied railways and another 2,000,000 for her armies.

£245 Fines for Sales of Tea

Fines totalling £245 were imposed at the Cork District Court yesterday on Jerome Coleman, tea merchant, of Marlboro' street, Cork, who was prosecuted by the Minister for Supplies on over fifty summonses in connection with sales of tea.

John Ronan, an officer of the Department of Supplies, said that he calculated that about 22,000 lbs. of tea were sold between February, 1941, and January, 1943, or roughly 66 per cent. over the legal amount. He further calculated that the defendant had sold about 2,477 lbs. of tea to traders not entitled to receive it.

District Justice S. Keely fined the defendant £5 on each of 28 summonses for sales of tea at excess prices, £5 each on 18 summonses for sales of excess tea to customers, £2 10s. on each of four summonses for selling without keeping a proper record, and £2 10s. on each of two summonses for selling without a retailer's licence—making £245 in all. The Justice marked "proved" and dismissed five summonses against an employee, Marjorie O'Sullivan, for aiding and abetting.

At the Killarney District Court, before District Justice H. L. Conner, a fine of £40 was imposed on Dominic E. Spillane, High street, Killarney, for having purchased 767 lbs. of tea from Jerome Coleman.

Belfast Man's Arms

At Belfast Recorder's Court yesterday Joseph Malachy Sherrie (20), a blacksmith, of 55A Joy street, was found guilty of possession of two revolvers and ammunition, and was put back for sentence. The case, it was stated, arose out of a police visit to accused's home, where they found the revolvers and also documents relating to an illegal organisation.

Charge Against Young Woman

An eighteen-year-old girl, Dorothy Gaffney, Terenure road, north, was remanded for a week in custody by District Justice Lennon in the Dublin District Court yesterday, on a charge of breaking and entering the lock-up shop of Patrick Conlan, on the same road, and stealing £5/10 in money. The girl, it was alleged, told Detective Smith that when she was in bed she remembered she had no money for the following day, so she got up and broke into the shop, using one of her shoes to break the glass.

Boxers Sent for Trial

Three Dublin boxers — Hugh Kilcullen (21), Gerald Kilcullen (24) and Patrick Mulcahy (27) were returned for trial by District Justice Lennon on charges of assaulting and obstructing police officers in the arrest of Kathleen Kealy, for whom there was a warrant. Kealy was coming from a boxing match at Dalymount Park on the night of 6th August, and, when detective officers sought to take her in custody, the three accused men, it was alleged, set upon them. Kealy got away at the time.

Independent bail was fixed at £100 in each case.

Dublin's Home Help

During the week ended last Saturday home assistance was given to 8,723 persons, at a cost of £3,629, it was announced by the Dublin Board of Assistance Commissioners at their meeting yesterday. These figures showed a decrease of 115 in the number of cases, and of £78 in expenditure, on those of the previous week, and a decrease of 870 cases, and of £369 in expenditure, compared with the corresponding week last year.

Last week 7,996 food vouchers were distributed.

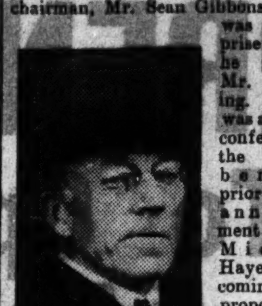

Conversion Charge

A further remand until to-morrow was ordered in the District Court in the case in which Thomas McKaig (36), no fixed address, who was arrested on warrant at Dundalk, is charged with converting to his own use the proceeds of the sale of articles entrusted to him in his business as an auctioneer at Dame street and Parliament street, Dublin. Yesterday there were six fresh charges entered against him, the amount of money involved in the series of over thirty counts being approximately £560.

Surprise Election in Senate

MR. SEAN GOULDING, former member of Dail and Senate, was yesterday elected Chairman of the new Senate.

The majority of members anticipated the re-election of the outgoing chairman, Mr. Sean Gibbons, and it was a surprise when he proposed Mr. Goulding. There was a hurried conference on the opposite benches prior to an announcement by Mr. Michael Hayes welcoming the proposal, and indicating that there would be no opposition.

MR. S. GOULDING.

The new Senate had a brief hour of public interest. The restricted accommodation on the public galleries at each end of the Chamber, normally empty, was uncomfortably crowded, and some people were left outside.

It was interesting to watch the arrival and dispositions of the fifty-nine members—Mr. Sam Kyle was not there—who attended the opening meeting. They came into the House in groups of two, three and four—the new Senators invariably piloted by an old hand. Some few preserved their independent attitude even in the matter of finding a seat.

ORIGINAL NOTE

One of the new arrivals was dressed in silk hat, morning coat and striped trousers, striking an original note.

When the House settled down it was noticed that Senator W. Quirke occupied the first seat on the front bench of what is regarded as the Government side of the Chamber, and Mr. Michael Hayes was his vis-à-vis. New faces in the front benches included Professor W. R. Fearon, General R. Mulcahy and Mr. P. O'Loghlen, defeated Dail members; Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Mr. Donal O'Sullivan, a former official of the Senate.

Mr. Gibbons prefaced his proposal of Mr. Goulding by remarking that, for personal reasons, he had decided not to seek re-election, and he spoke eulogistically of his nominee, who has been a member of the Second House since 1938, before which he served in the Dail for a number of years. He is a company director, member of Waterford County Council and other public bodies in his native Lismore.

Mr. Goulding is a bachelor, and Mrs. Concannon, who supported his nomination, suggested, with a homely touch, that he might improve his position during his period of office.

Tributes to Mr. Gibbons were paid by Mr. T. Foran and Mr. Donal O'Sullivan before the Cathaoirleach took the chair.

The House adjourned sine die.

Press Freedom Violated

The General Secretary of the Institute of Journalists (Mr. Stewart Nicholson) issued the following statement on the decision of the Trades Union Congress to admit as Press representatives to their meetings only persons who are members of the National Union of Journalists or of a union recognised by the International Federation of Journalists:

"The resolution passed by the Trades Union Congress on the proposal of the National Union of Journalists is obviously intended as a reprisal against the recognition by the Newspaper Proprietors' Association of the Institute as a negotiating body on wages and conditions of employment in the profession. It is a gross violation of the freedom of the Press which, as the Minister of Information has said, is not a right of the Press, but a right of the public.

"Members of the Institute of Journalists, who, as trustees for the public, regard loyalty to their newspapers to be their first professional duty, resist this reprehensible attempt to interfere with the rights of the newspapers in the service of the public interest. It would be a serious menace to the public interest, and a complete denial of the individual liberty which the trade union movement professes to uphold, if the Press were to be made subject to dictation of this kind."

Housewives to Ask for More Soap

The Irish Housewives' Committee, at a meeting on Tuesday night, decided to ask the Minister for Supplies to allow the original ration of 6 ozs. of soap per month in the case of children under two years of age. Mothers of small children complained that the new soap ration was inadequate.

A proposal that the Minister might substitute more soap for the child's tea ration, until the child was at least two years old, may be suggested.

The matron of a large children's hospital in the city agreed that the new allowance of 1 oz. per week was insufficient for an infant's needs. She suggested a form of saving which is practised in the hospital for babies' laundry. All woollies and small garments are washed with a soap jelly made from left-over ends of soap, shredded and boiled.

Potato Queues in Dublin

Potato queues have reappeared in Dublin during the past few days. Many housewives in the newly-populated areas of the city were without potatoes yesterday, and others who stood for long periods in queues on Monday and Tuesday could only get a quarter-stone.

Potatoes are likely to be short during the next few weeks, owing to harvesting operations.

The extent of the potato crop this year is not yet fully ascertained, but it is likely that the quantity will be about average. Middle early potatoes suffered to some extent from blight, and many of them turned black after marketing, but the development of the disease in the main crop was arrested.

Want Unionist Policy Defined

The following motion is on the agenda for the meeting on Friday week of the Standing Committee of the Ulster Unionist Council:—

"That the leaders of the Unionist Party be requested to define the policy of the party, in order that speakers for and supporters of the party may know exactly what they may advocate in its name."

This demand follows the decision taken for party reorganisation. A point of interest is whether the party policy will be defined by Mr. J. M. Andrews, the former Premier, who is President of the Unionist Council, or Sir Basil Brooke, the present Prime Minister.

It is expected that the task will fall on Sir Basil.

Allied Air Armada Over France

HUNDREDS of Spitfires—the greatest fighter armada of the war—and massed formations of Focke Wulf 190s and Messerschmitts fought a fierce pitched battle over France in daylight yesterday, according to the Press Association Air Correspondent.

The air combats developed when the huge force of Spitfires escorted and supported bombing assaults on three Axis airfields in northern France and Belgium by U.S. Marauders and R.A.F. Mitchells.

The Spitfires, it is stated, scored a 9-4 victory, damaged many more German fighters, and brought safely back every medium bomber. Yesterday was the seventh day of the great Allied air offensive.

When wave after wave of bombers, Spitfires and Thunderbolts returned over the Straits of Dover soon after tea-time yesterday, crowds of people at Folkestone watched the procession, which took half an hour to pass.

"Axis fighters came up in considerable force for the offensive against the Nord airfields at Lille, and dog-fights went on beyond the French coast on the way back," says the Air Ministry News Service.

"Fighters were concentrated against this part of the attack, and a Polish wing giving cover to American Marauders which bombed the airfield shot down six German fighters and damaged many more."

Other wings of Spitfires penetrated over sixty miles into France when they provided escort for Mitchells which attacked the airfield at Vitry-en-Artois, near Arras, it is stated.

Typhoon bombers, with Typhoon fighter escort, attacked the airfield at Mardyck, near Dunkirk, during the morning. The report says that no Axis aircraft attempted to interfere.

Naval aircraft operating with Fighter Command attacked German light craft in the Channel and destroyed one E-boat. "None of our aircraft is missing."

A communiqué from Headquarters, European theatre of operations, United States Army, states: "Good bombing results were reported by Eighth Air Support Command flyers. A hangar and a German transport 'plane were blown up by direct hits at the Lille-Vendeville Aerodrome."

A German military spokesman told Swedish correspondents in Berlin that the Americans are using 200 to 300 'planes on heavy bomber raids over Europe, and said it was difficult for German pilots to attack the bombers because of their tight formation.

The German News Agency says that there were 200 casualties in Tuesday's raid on Brussels.

According to Paris Radio, American bombers yesterday made a violent attack on the suburbs of Amiens. "A great number of bombs were dropped, and serious damage was done," it is added. "American bombers also made two attacks on Abbeville."

Counter-Offensive Fails

"The Germans are paying a big price in their all-out night fighter counter-offensive, which has failed to check our 'annihilation' assaults on Reich war centres," states the Allied Air Ministry News Service.

"Bomber Command 'planes have destroyed 45 Axis night fighters for certain in recent onslaughts over Germany, and many more have been damaged.

"During the second half of August the score reached 30, a considerable increase over the corresponding fortnight of July, during which time the Battle of Hamburg was at its height, when nine were destroyed. For the whole of July 15 were destroyed.

"After Hamburg the Germans decided to throw in every night fighter they could mobilise."

Two Axis Ships Sunk

Naval light coastal forces sank an Axis armed trawler and a patrol vessel in an encounter off the French coast early yesterday. Five Axis ships were met, and British small craft carried out a surprise close-range torpedo attack.

Spain's Fear of Communism

The Spanish Blue Legion in Russia was not there as a blood payment to the Axis for their help in the Civil War, but was there because Spain's fear of Communism blinded her to all other considerations in the present war, said Jose Luis Arrese, second only to Franco as leader of the regime in Spain, in Madrid yesterday.

Pineapples £2 each!

Four pineapples, priced £2 each, were on sale at a Dublin fruiterers yesterday. They are believed to have been brought to this country by sailors. Pineapples were last seen in Eire in 1941.

Pork Time-Table

From Monday next Dublin housewives who want pork will not be to buy it on Wednesdays or after 1 p.m. on other days, except Saturday, when the pork butchers' shops will remain open till 5 p.m.

Farmers Must Till More

Irish farmers will be compelled next year to till 33⅓ per cent. of their arable lands. In the present year the compulsory tillage area was 25 per cent.

By way of offsetting the full extent of the increase, the Department of Agriculture has decided to include as tillage first-crop meadow to the maximum extent of one-quarter of the tillage on any holding.

The subject was mentioned in the Senate yesterday by Mr. J. T. McGEE, who suggested that farmers should be given earlier notice of the tillage requirements.

The MINISTER FOR AGRICULTURE expressed the view that not much value could be attached to propaganda activity before Christmas. He added that they had decided to include first-crop meadow because they had found that some farmers, traditionally opposed to tillage, went on breaking the same ground, declaring that they would not spoil their grass land. Observing that the details of the harvest would not be available for a week or two, he mentioned that crop prices for next year would not be decided upon until the end of the month.

Mr. F. H. O'DONNELL, a new member of the House, said he did not understand why the Government was prepared to pay 84s. for imported wheat and only 40s. to Irish farmers. He called for "more courage and daring in financing agricultural production," remarking that he hoped the Minister's mind on this matter would be improved.

Dr. RYAN suggested that the Senator would learn more about the finer points of economics during his period in the House. "I hope, when the war is over," he said, "we may be able to continue paying the Irish grower of wheat a fair price, whatever it may cost to bring wheat from Canada and the Argentine. That principle is better than the old Manchester rule of buying the cheapest article in the cheapest market."

Allies Advance in New Guinea

Allied forward troops have advanced to within eight miles of Lae, according to Reuter's Special Correspondent at Allied Headquarters in the South-west Pacific.

General MacArthur's forces are now within range of Lae's guns, which have not, so far, gone into action, and the Japanese, four miles east of Lae, on the Busu river, are now threatened by seaborne troops landed north-east of the Japanese base.

Plan for a New Senate

By Politicus.

SHOULD Mr. de Valera decide that another Dail election is desirable its immediate sequel would be a repetition of the recent farcical procedure for the recruitment of Senators. Having regard to the difficulties and delays which must be encountered before an alternative plan is agreed upon and ratified by electors at a Referendum (setting in motion all the machinery of a general election) there is no time to be lost if the country is to be saved from the perpetration of another dose of "vocational" make-believe. While there is a concensus of popular opinion in favour of some practical alternative to the present "electoral college" plan no such alternative has yet been suggested. Hence a proposal which was submitted to the Constitution Committee twenty years ago, then rejected in favour of a Tweny-six County P.R. Constituency and subsequently abandoned, may now be worthy of re-examination.

ESSENTIAL FEATURES

The essential features of the plan then outlined were:—

1—Six electoral regions, from each of which registered voters of 30 years of age and upwards would elect seven senators by means of proportional voting.

2—All candidates to designate some special vocational or other interest which they propose to represent: that vocation or interest to be declared on their nomination papers.

3—Dublin and National Universities each to return five senators.

4—The Senate thus to consist of forty-two "vocational" and ten university members.

Adverse critics of the skeleton plan so outlined may be expected to include those who are devoted to the idea of a chamber consisting of representatives of clearly-defined vocations; and, at the other extreme, doctrinal democrats who accept the minimum age limit of 21 as the "Plimsoll line" of democracy.

DIFFICULTIES

To the strict vocationalist one only can reply that all efforts to produce anything like intelligible or acceptable categories of occupations and economic interests have failed, and that there seems to be little hope that the prolonged proceedings of the Vocational Commission will lead to the production of practical proposals. Even in countries with long experience of political and economic organisation such classifications have proven either to be unobtainable or to have failed to achieve their authors' declared purposes. In Ireland—where political thought is as yet highly fluid, and economic organisation is yet in a general state of unstable equilibrium—rigid lines of demarcation between occupations and interests are peculiarly difficult to discover.

A COMPROMISE

As a means by which to avoid such rigid definitions, and to provide a tentative and flexible approach to vocationalism as applied to political institutions, the proposal now submitted seems to merit consideration. It embodies a working compromise between party and occupational alignments—with the emphasis on vocational definitions. Leaving every candidate free to declare the particular group of interests he may wish to represent, it would provide a "trial and error," or evolutionary, method of approach to problems which so far have shown themselves to be intractable. Under its operation the merchant who also is an authority on, let us say, afforestation, the farmer who also is a county councillor, or the labour leader who is identified with some branch of sport, would be free to decide in which of these interests he preferred to seek the voters' support. Once elected, however, the candidate would have a special measure of responsibility to the interest or occupation on whose behalf his claim for support had been based.

THE ELECTORATE

To ultra-democratic objectors to a minimum age limit for electors, one can only repeat that there is nothing sacrosanct in the minimum which is fixed for Dail elections. The fact that the Senate's powers are now only those of criticism and suggestion would seem to justify a somewhat differentiated electorate. Property qualifications being out of the question, that differentiation could best be determined by the acceptance of an age limit. Accordingly, it is proposed that such a limit should be so fixed as to secure an electorate whose age and political experience had given time for the development of critical faculties. The younger generation's present powers of initiative, and their driving force, would remain unimpaired as voters in Dail elections, while the Senate would reflect the values which spring from age and experience.

SIMPLICITY

Let it be added that the plan's principle, not the sizes of electoral regions or the numbers of representatives and voters' ages suggested, is the only matter of material importance. Should the principles so illustrated be accepted as a basis for discussion, details can be considered later on. The plan at least has the merits of being eminently simple and easy to apply. Let its value be tested by comparing it with the present tortuous and cumbersome procedure—which must prevail until its abolition is sanctioned by the votes of electors at a General Referendum.

Galway's Big Proposals

A BIG programme of post-war development in Galway City and County has been forwarded by Mr. C. I. O'Flynn, County Manager, Galway, to the Local Government Department.

The schemes include the provision of an aerodrome at Oranmore, estimated to cost £60,000, or, as an alternative, an aerodrome beside a seaplane base on Lough Corrib at an estimated cost of £150,000.

Other schemes for which plans have been put forward are road improvement and the provision of amenities, including swimming pools in a number of county towns at an estimated cost of £184,498; the building of 360 labourers' cottages in the county at an estimated cost of £133,200, and the provision of waterworks and sewerage in various parts of the county at an estimated cost of £100,644.

Schemes, including demolition of ruins, preparation of site for big housing development, and improvement of the water supply and sewerage, have been put forward for Galway City.

The County Manager estimates that from 200 to 240 working-class houses are required to meet present demands in Galway City. He pointed out to our correspondent that, in addition to those schemes, Galway also awaits the building of a regional hospital, plans for which had already been sanctioned, and that in the meantime he was exploring the possibility of providing temporary accommodation to relieve overcrowding in Galway Central Hospital.

Italy's Collapse

The Rome-Berlin axis has snapped. Such is the net effect of yesterday's dramatic announcement from Allied Headquarters. General Eisenhower's statement was couched in the baldest terms. The Italian Government, it said, has surrendered its forces unconditionally. It has been granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the British, American and Russian Governments, and has bound itself to abide by the Allies' terms without reservation. That is all. Thus Italy passes from the war in which she has been engaged since the fall of France more than three years ago. The record of her campaigns has been a record of almost unrelieved tragedy. When Signor Mussolini declared war on Great Britain and France on the eve of the latter's collapse, Italy's military prospects seemed to be reasonably good; but it was significant that, even when Germany occupied the whole of metropolitan France after the Anglo-American invasion of North Africa, the Italians were confined to a small stretch of territory in Haute Savoie. When they invaded Egypt the position of the British garrison seemed to be precarious; but General Wavell threw Marshal Graziani back into Tripolitania, and it was not until the arrival of Marshal Rommel, with his formidable Afrikakorps, that the British were forced to retreat hot-foot across the Western Desert. The end of that campaign has passed into history. In East Africa the fate of Italy's cause was equally tragic. She lost Eritrea, Somaliland and eventually the whole of Abyssinia; and when the Anglo-American Allies drove the Italians out of Tunisia, Italy's entire Empire had vanished. Now a unique situation has been created. Italy has accepted the Allies' terms of "unconditional surrender," throwing herself completely on their mercy, while her powerful ally still is in the field. In other words, she has sued for a separate peace. In normal circumstances, this condition of affairs would be sufficiently unusual; but the circumstances are anything but normal. For one thing, there still are strong German forces in Italy; for another, Italian divisions are acting as garrison troops throughout the Balkans, particularly in Albania and Greece. What will happen now to the Germans in Italy, with their large quantities of material of all kinds; and what will happen to the Italian units in the Balkans? On the answers to these questions the whole future course of the war in Europe may depend.

Italy's surrender has placed Germany in an exceedingly awkward position; for the whole strategy of the Axis was based on the closest intimacy between Berlin and Rome; and yesterday's breach in the defences of Herr Hitler's Festung Europa must have upset all the calculations of the German High Command. It is obvious from General Eisenhower's statement that the Allies do not expect the Italians to remain wholly quiescent; for the Allied Commander-in-Chief announces that "all Italians who now help to eject the German aggressor from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations." Furthermore, Marshal Badoglio, in his pronunciamento to the Italian people, declares that, while the Italians will fight no longer against the British and Americans, "they will oppose attacks from any other quarter." The implication is obvious. For some time past military experts have been discussing the probable attitude of the Germans in the event of an Italian collapse. There has been widespread agreement on the thesis that Herr Hitler's generals could not afford to ignore such a development, and that, at least, they would decide to defend the line of the Po, in which event Italy would become a battle-field, not, indeed, for the first time in history, over which foreign armies would be deployed against each other. It is too soon yet to speculate more closely on this possibility; but it cannot be left wholly out of account. The Allies have granted an armistice to Italy on purely military terms; political, financial and economic conditions will follow at a later stage. Admiral Cunningham, the British Commander-in-Chief of the Allied naval forces in the Mediterranean, has addressed a broadcast to all Italian ships, naval and mercantile, instructing them to avoid seizure by the Germans, and to make their way either to Allied or to neutral ports. It is clear that the Allies expect the Italians if not exactly to help them actively against the Germans, at least to facilitate them in every possible way; and it is equally clear that the Germans will not remain indifferent to such an attitude on the part of their former allies. One cannot but feel sorry for the Italian people, who have undergone such dire tribulations. During the last twenty years they have tasted the sweets of power, and now are experiencing the gall and wormwood of utter ruin. Their lot is all the harder, inasmuch as they have no present assurance that their trials are at an end. Italy's fate seems to be, in the words of her own poet—

Per servir sempre, o vincitrice, o vinta.

The Final Comment

The final comment upon the Senate elections was made by Senator D. D. Healy, in the Dublin Corporation meeting on Monday. The meeting was discussing a resolution—which was passed—recommending the extension of the scheme under which children were sent to the Gaelteacht from Dublin. Mr. T. Cosgrave was surprised at the concern displayed for the language, "considering that at the Senate election a former President of the Gaelic League did not get a single vote, although three of the councillors who had spoken had each a No. 1 vote." Senator Healy, defending himself, said that "as far as he was concerned, he had a vote, but he was sure they would admit that his first duty was to himself." The honesty of this statement disarms criticism; and indeed what criticism there is must be, not of Senator Healy's attitude, but of the whole election system. No fewer than twenty-one people were placed in the same position as Senator Healy; they were all candidates for the Senate, and each had also the right of exercising one of the 364 votes. A position of responsibility, for which every man knew he himself was the best choice in Ireland, was in the balance—with the not inconsiderable make-weight of a salary of £360 a year. What could anybody do but vote for himself? The single first preference vote was no inconsiderable influence on an election in which the quota was just over eight. One voter-candidate was actually elected with only one first preference vote; several were elected with two or three; and, altogether, twelve of the twenty-one voter-candidates gained seats in the House. The whole situation might be taken from a Gilbert and Sullivan opera; for even Pooh-Bah, with all his multifarious offices, at least had not also the right of appointing himself. It is no wonder that the so-called Upper House is regarded by the country as, at best, a music-hall joke, or, at worst, a machine for cynical exploitation of the nation's finances. £20,000 a year is a lot to pay for a joke. There has been talk of bribery in the election. Nobody can say whether there was bribery—or, at least, we may be certain that nobody will say—but when eight first preference votes are enough to guarantee election, a candidate could afford to pay quite handsomely to make his seat secure, and still do well out of his salary. We wait with interest to see whether these allegations of shady work will be investigated, or whether Mr. de Valera will ignore them tactfully, rather than to draw attention to the miserable failure which has attended his reorganisation of the Senate. The people are entitled to look to their representatives to see that they are not swindled. Mr. de Valera's reconstruction of the Senate on a "vocational" basis has had the result of giving us a Senate elected on party lines. The Dail, in which Mr. de Valera holds sway still, has the right to nominate candidates for the Senate, and twenty-two of the Dail's candidates must be among the forty-three generally elected Senators; what is more, the Dail members are among the 364 voters. As if this were not enough to ensure that the Senate will represent the correct political views, the Taoiseach has the right to choose eleven Senators. Since the Senate, as well as the Dail, thus reflects the Taoiseach's opinions, it is to him that the people must look for a lead. Only if he is prepared for an investigation can an investigation take place. As a politician, he may approve of the Senate; as a man of intelligence and culture, he cannot be unaware of its shortcomings. We wait to see how he will show up as an honest man and a democrat.

I n-áiṙiḋ áiriṫe táṫar ag cur i n-aġaiḋ na tairisginte a ṁol an tor-ċaireaċt ón Irish P.E.N. i láṫair an Taoisiġ maidin le ciste do ḃunú doċum údair boċta Éireannaċa do ċoṫú. Deirtear go mbeaḋ sé náireaċ airgead Gaelaċ do ṫabairt do luċt scríoḃṫa an Ḃéarla.

"Tá ciste dá ḟagáil i dtíortaiḃ eile, deirtear linn. An é atá le tuisgint againn go dtaoinfí pinsin do scríḃneoirí Gearmáinise sa tSeic-Slóḃaic? An dtugtar cabair airgid do scríḃneoirí Rúisise is scríḃneoirí Sualannaiġ sa bhFionnlainn?"

Agus mar sin den sean-ṗort. Ní tuigeann an dream so cad ċuige nać ḃfuil ciste ann le pinsin do ḋáil dos na h-údair Gaeḋilge. Inneosad. Ní annsa. Níl na h-údair againn. Níl aon litríoċt againn aċ oiread, go ḃfóiriḋ Dia orainn. Níl aon údar aṁáin againn i mbun nua-litríoċta i nGaeḋilg a ḃféadfaḋ seasaṁ i láṫair an doṁain ṁóir i gcuṁaiḋ Béarla—nó fiú i láṫair na hÉireann féin. (Ní áirṁim mé féin óir ní údar mise aċt file.) Tá sá tuairim 500 léiġteoir ag na scríḃneoirí Gaeḋilge agus léiġeann 400 aca sin leaḃair Gaeḋilge d'fonn port do ġnóṫú sa scát-seirḃís nó ċun céim ináirde d'ḟáil má's innti dóiḃ ċeana. An 100 eile, ní léiġid Béarla toisc ná tuigid é. Ní ḃeiḋ údair ná litríoċt Gaelge ann go dtí go mbíonn an pobal léiṫeoireaċta ann. Beiḋ an pobal sin na céadta blian ag cruinniú isteaċ agus idir an dá linn ní h-aon ċabair de ċúis na Gaeilge pinsin ná airgead do ḋáil do na daoine boċta a feis-tiġ an "litríoċt" ró-lontaċ a cuireaḋ i gcló le fiċe blian anuas. IRISH CHRISTMAS CARDS

Among the articles being purchased by Northern visitors to Dublin in recent times are—Christmas cards. They are making sure that their Australian and other far-distant friends will receive their Christmas greetings in time.

Irish-manufactured Christmas cards will predominate in the shops this Christmas, and Irish artists, whose work has reached a high standard of excellence, will have their designs reproduced on these cards. There will be a far wider variety of Irish designs this year than ever before.

Home-made autograph Christmas cards are now in the printing process, and will be available about Christmas. There is a steady trickle of imported Christmas cards coming into the country within recent weeks. They are of a somewhat "utility" design and make.

QUEEN VICTORIA

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Would the fact that the memory of Queen Victoria is not revered by the present Corporation of Dublin be due to the fact that she sanctioned a pension of £300 per annum to Father Theobald Mathew as a mark of her approbation of his work—Dublin citizens were not very generous to him when he was in need.—Yours, etc.,

"ABSTAINER."

"OUR OWN DEAR QUEEN"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Lest your reference to "Britannia in Leinster street" should incite some patriotic reader to do something rash, I should like to remind you that the figure on the balustrade there was set up to perpetuate my ideal "Hibernia" when I was living in No. 5 from 1818 till 1826. An accompanying piece, depicting my favourite wolfhound, has been destroyed—like many others of Dublin's relics—and, as it is probable that my "Hibernia," too, will fall under the demolisher's pick-axe, a photograph of it will, I believe, interest your readers.—Yours from beyond the Veil,

ARCHIBALD HAMILTON ROWAN.

LAW CLERKS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Some short time ago a move was made to organise those employed in solicitors' offices. There may be some who do not see the necessity for such an organisation, and it is perhaps, natural that those who enjoy a proper salary should feel that it is not up to them to join. But they should remember that they are the lucky few who are blessed with Christian employers.

The following cases from my own experience may serve to inform the general public of the un-Christian conditions under which law clerks work:—

Clerk employed 40 years in same office, married, with three children. Salary: £3 per week.

Clerk employed 45 years in same office, married, dismissed (without pension), apparently on account of age. Salary: £2 10s. per week.

Clerk employed 40 years in same office, unmarried, dismissed at 63 years of age with a lump sum of £30. Salary: £2 per week.

In each of the above cases the employers were big firms of solicitors with a very large practice.

I will say no more, but in the interest of human decency alone I would ask you to publish this letter. Yours, etc., JUSTICIA.

August 31st, 1943.

RUSSIAN CHURCH MEETS

The Russian Orthodox Church yesterday opened its first Episcopal Assembly or Congress since 1925, with the sanction of the Soviet State, to elect a Patriarch and organise a Holy Synod.

Metropolitan Sergei, of Moscow, acting Patriarch, who was expected to be elected permanent head of the Church, presided at the meeting, which was attended by Metropolitan Alexei, of Leningrad, and Metropolitan Nikolai, of Kiev.

The agenda called for the election of a Synod of three permanent members and three elected periodically by Assembly to govern the Church.—(Associated Press.)

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

THE evacuation of the great industrial city of Stalino, Germany's last big base in the Donetz, recalls the fact that, until the revolution, the town was known as Hughesovka, after its Welsh founder, John Hughes, of Merthyr, who, in 1869, established on virgin land, sixty miles from the port of Mariupol, in the Sea of Azov, a large plant for making steel rails. Previously, most of the steel rails used on the quickly-expanding Russian railway system had been imported from Merthyr and Dowlais. The town which is now Stalino grew up gradually around the works, which were manned at first mainly by Welshmen. Even in 1896 some eighty Welshmen and their wives and children were in Hughesovka, and Dr. David Williams, Lecturer in history at Cardiff University College, believes that there are among the present-day warriors of the Steppes men whose forbears left Wales seventy years ago.

Mr. Orson Welles

The wedding to Miss Rita Hayworth of Mr. Orson Welles, the one-time Gate actor who is now the enfant terrible of the American film world, made the headlines this evening. Miss Hayworth, who is 24, is believed to be among the six most highly-paid film stars in Hollywood. She is a New Yorker, and her real name is Margarita Carmen Cansino. She is daughter of Eduardo Cansino, world-famous Spanish dancer and teacher of Cesar Romero. For years Eduardo and his wife were a top-line dance act on the United States music halls.

Trollope Centenary

Admirers of Anthony Trollope are marking this week the centenary of the commencement of his first novel, "The MacDermots of Ballycloran." It was in September, 1843, when acting as clerk to a Post Office surveyor in Ireland, and touring remote districts in the west, that he and a friend, John Merivale, arrived at Drumsna, County Leitrim, and at the nearby village of Headford came upon the desolate ruins of a country house. The scene had such an effect upon Trollope, who was still in his twenties, that it immediately inspired him with the plot of his first novel.

Diphtheria Immunisation

Statistics published to-day state that in the county of Fife, of 134 immunised persons admitted to diphtheria wards none was seriously ill, and all made rapid recoveries, whereas the 383 non-immunised persons admitted were, for the most part, seriously ill, and required a longer period of nursing. Deaths among immunised children numbered two, and in both cases the injections had been given under six months before the onset of illness. There were thirteen deaths among patients who had not been immunised.

Sussex's Oldest Doctor

Sussex's oldest doctor in active practice, Dr. Edward Fitzgerald Frazer, native of Drumkeerin, County Leitrim, who qualified at the Royal College of Surgeons and Physicians in Ireland in 1892, has died after almost fifty years in regular practice at Brighton. A gold medallist of the R.C.S.I. in anatomy, and prizeman in surgery, he was an L.M. of the Rotunda hospital, and held appointments at the Richmond and Meath hospitals before coming to Brighton to act as locum tenens to Dr. Webster, one of the famous old school of physicians. Soon he yielded to the charm of the Brighton of those days. In his early days an Irish Rugby international, Dr. Frazer retained his interest in sport all his life, and few doctors in Sussex have ever made so many friends in a professional and social capacity. Dr. Frazer married, in 1914, Miss Edith J. Seymour, who was one of the first women journalists on the staff of the Gentlewoman, and subsequently with the Standard and the Evening Standard. She survives with their only son, Dr. Walter Fitzgerald Frazer.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

J. K. Milner.

Mr. H. B. Pollock writes from Castleknock to give me more information about the Irish-American shooting match of 1873. His father, who travelled as substitute with the team, shot for Ireland in the return match at Dollymount in the following year.

J. K. Milner, whose error in scoring a bull's-eye on the wrong target lost the Long Island match for Ireland, established a record on that occasion by being the first man to score ten consecutive bulls at a range of 1,000 yards. Milner, says Mr. Pollock, was the last man to finish firing, and knew that a bull or an inner would win the match. He took great care with his aim and scored his bull—but on the wrong target. At 1,000 yards that was not a difficult mistake to make.

Some forty years later this remarkable marksman was still in the field, and carried off the cup for the highest aggregate score at Bisley. His brother, Sir Hugh Milner, who operated on King George V., is still alive, and was in this country a few years ago.

International Operations

A boast was made at the annual conference of the Motor Cycle Union of Ireland a few months ago that it probably was the only governing body of motor cycle sport which remained active. The International Federation of Motor Cycle Clubs still is in existence, but only on paper; its staff has nothing to do, and has, no doubt, found other occupations.

I wonder how many international sporting organisations have been able to keep going since 1939. The International Amateur Athletic Federation is the only one about which I have been able to obtain any definite information. It has been in communication from time to time with the Amateur Athletic Union of Eire and it has confirmed records established as recently as September of last year.

Its headquarters are in Stockholm, and as two Swedes, Gunnar Haegg and Arne Anderson, now are the world's most prominent runners, it is not surprising that there is interest in Stockholm in its continued existence.

Incidentally, with one exception, all the records made since the start of the war were in either Sweden or U.S.A. The exception was Adolfo Consolini's discus throw of 174 feet 10¼ inches, in Italy, in October, 1941.

"Somerville"—Artist

How ignorant one sometimes discovers oneself to be! I was taking a turn in the Municipal Gallery one day recently, and stopped before an interesting picture which I could not recall having seen before. Then with surprise and pleasure I read the artist's name—E. Œ. Somerville.

Was it possible that the famous author—or part-author, as she would herself be the first to insist—of the "R.M." series and "The Real Charlotte" could be as accomplished with brush as with pen? On making enquiries, I found that she was, in fact, the artist. I learnt further that Dr. Somerville has held two highly successful one-man shows in London, and has occasionally before exhibited in Dublin at the R.H.A.

The Charlemont House picture—a gift from the artist—is a gravely pathetic study of "A Widow Woman." The paint is vaporous in texture—"rather French" I thought as I stood wondering.

Certainly no amateur could paint like that. I asked a friend of Dr. Somerville's and mine whether the artist had ever studied in Paris. In reply I was lent a copy of "Irish Memories" and found that she had, for prolonged periods worked in the studios of Collarossi and Délécluze, two of the most renowned art teachers in the Paris of yesteryear. It is no wonder, therefore, that she paints well. But it also appears that painting was her first love, that her writing—in collaboration with "Martin Ross"—only came later as a subsidiary activity. Considering her love of music and her life-long friendship with Dame Ethel Smythe, I shall not, after this, be surprised if one of these days it transpires that Dr. Somerville also composes!

Background

The technique of supplying suitable background music for films has advanced far since pre-talkie days, when "Hearts and Flowers" and the "William Tell" overture were rendered on a single piano. To-day composers of the first rank—Vaughan Williams, William Walton and Serge Prokofiev, for example—are responsible for the musical scores of many productions.

Sometimes, however, at a crucial point in the film inspiration forsakes the composer, who is then forced to make use of a suitable extract from a work of some great classical master. A good example of this occurred in a film recently shown in Dublin. After much thought and deliberation, Ronald Colman has at length decided to shave off his beard—a much-cherished growth of many years.

At the moment when he takes up the razor to begin his work of destruction there is heard the opening of the Prelude to Act III. of Wagner's "Lohengrin," with all its associations of mighty deeds of chivalry and valour. The effect, through its very unconventiality, is remarkably striking.

"FLY PLAGUE" AT HOSPITAL

It was agreed by nine votes to three at a meeting of the Joint Hospital Board at Watford, Hertfordshire, yesterday to apply for an injunction forbidding the Watford Corporation to use any refuse tip near the hospital. A dump near the hospital is alleged to be the source of a fly pestilence, to which has been attributed an outbreak of dysentry.

LUNCHEON TO M. MAISKY

OYSTER SCARCITY

Dublin gourmets will go without their oysters for a few weeks, although there is an "r" in the month. Last season's stocks were sold out and none kept over for this season, so supplies have not come on to the market yet. It probably will be some time in October before normal quantities are available.

DISCOVERY OF OLD LIMERICK WARE

The recent discovery at a London sale of pieces of delft-ware made in Limerick in the 18th century by a potter whose existence had been known, but whose work was thought to have vanished, is announced in the new issue of the North Munster Antiquarian Journal.

Attention was drawn to these pieces by the English Ceramic Circle, which devoted an article and several photographs to them in their Transactions. The writer of the article said that, though the potteries of Ireland had been exhaustively studied by Mr. Dudley Westropp, of the National Museum, nothing had been attributed to the 18th century manufactures, which appeared to have existed at Limerick, Rostrevor, Waterford and Wexford.

Recently, however, there were found at a sale of property of the Wilson Fitzgerald family, Wilton Crescent, London, three dinner plates bearing the inscription "John Stritch, Limerick," and the date 1761. Two bore the arms of the family of Pierpoint Burton, member of Parliament for the County Clare; and one the arms of Edmond Sexton Pery, Member for Limerick. It is thought that the plates were made to enlist the support of these men in obtaining for Stritch a Royal Dublin Society premium which, in fact, he is known to have received in 1762. The decoration of the plates, done by transfer-printing from an engraving, is comparatively rare in 18th century wares.

FOLK-CRAFTS IN COUNTY MEATH

At the foot of the Slieve-na-Calliagh hills in the County Meath, National Museum archæologists, in their spare time from the excavation of the Bronze Age cairns, have found at work a machine of a type almost as old as the cairns on the hills above. It is a pole-lathe still in occasional use by a local tradesman for the making of wooden butter dishes, parts for churns and other wooden objects. About ten years ago the Irish Antiquities Section of the Museum acquired what they thought was the last pole-lathe extant in Ireland, but had not suspected they might find one still in use.

As a by-product of the archæological expedition, this district around Oldcastle is yielding a rich crop of information about folk-crafts and folk-lore. They found the spinning wheel and carding implements still in use in at least one household, where all the family socks are knitted from yarn spun from the wool of their own sheep.

They have also recorded numerous "cures" believed in by the people of the district. One for erysipelas consists of putting a dead female worm and a dead male worm in the hand of a newly-born seventh son of a seventh son, clasping the baby's hand over them, and then applying them to the wrist of the affected persons.

The custom of a dead maiden being carried into the cemetery by other maidens of the district is only now falling into disuse. It received a severe blow some years ago when a young woman, estimated to weigh nearly twenty stone, died, and had to be carried to the cemetery by the men of the district.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Taxpayers' Association.—The Executive Committee of the Irish Ratepayers' and Taxpayers' Association has decided to do everthing possible to establish a branch of the Association in Cork.

Northern Supervisor's Appointment.—Mr. J. A. Collins, who has been supervisor of Ensa in Northern Ireland for the past two years, has been appointed to take charge of the Overseas Branch of Ensa Headquarters, London.

New Sutton School.—A simple ceremony marked the opening of St. Fintan's High School, which has been started by the Christian Brothers on the seashore at Sutton, Dublin. Mass was celebrated in the Oratory by Very Rev. Fr. P. F. Clarke, P.P. Howth.

Sent for Trial.—Patrick Geraghty (26), John Garland (21) and Charles Brown (20), all of no fixed address, were sent for trial by District Justice Lennon, in Dublin yesterday, charged with assaulting Hugh Drake, a seaman from Cobh, and stealing £60 from him at Sackville place.

Man's Death in Street.—Richard Fox (51) collapsed in Upper O'Connell street, Dublin, on Monday, and died after bleeding profusely from the head. A member of the Tara Street Fire Brigade took him to Jervis Street Hospital, and at an inquest there yesterday the City Coroner, while saying that he had not sufficient evidence to show the cause of death, returned a verdict that it was due to shock and hæmorrhage following head injuries.

ARCTIC SUN TO RUN TO-DAY

ARCTIC SUN is amongst the declared runners for the Anglesey Stakes at the Curragh to-day, and the race looks at the mercy of Mr. Joseph McGrath's filly. The distance, 6 furlongs, 63 yards, is the longest the two-year-olds have been asked to travel this season, but the manner of Arctic Sun's success in the Phœnix Plate was such that she should not be troubled by the extra furlong and odd yards. Probably most danger will come from Donatus, who was second in the Phœnix Plate.

A more open affair is the J. T. Rogers Memorial Gold Cup, a mile and a half handicap, and it would be appropriate should the trophy, which is being run for for the first time, be won by a horse trained by Captain D. Rogers, son of the trainer after whom the race is named. His pair, Winawar and Banavie, are both good stayers, and the more fancied of the pair will go close. There will be strong opposition, however, and Neartic, second in the Oaks, must have a big chance with bottom weight. Selections:—

Scurry Handicap — Collins's Selected.

Osborne Plate—Annetta.

Anglesey Stakes—Arctic Sun.

Maddenstown Handicap—Crackerjack.

J. T. Rogers Cup — D. Rogers's Selected.

Brownstown Plate—St. Valentine.

Loughbrown Handicap—Taffytrap, if absent, Sweet Peach.

Curragh Correspondent. — 2.45, Edvina; 3.15, Touch and Go; 3.45, Arctic Sun; 4.15, Arts Ball; 4.45, Fair Gem; 5.15, Choral; 5.40, Taffytrap or Sweet Peach.

Tote Double on fifth and sixth races.

St. Leger Horses at Work

Persian Gulf, who was ridden by Beary, did not impress when galloped over the St. Leger distance at Newmarket yesterday with Herald (G. Bridgland), Long Walk, Fisherman's Yarn and Marble Faun. Prince Igor joined in over the last mile. As is usually the case in home gallops, Persian Gulf ran in lazy fashion.

Beary also rode Nasrullah in a stripped gallop of a mile and three-quarters with Umiddad, Baman making the pace for the first mile. It was not a test from which anything could be learned as to their respective merits, as neither was called upon for a special effort.

Herringbone (H. Wragg) had a fast mile and a half gallop. Acclaimed accompanied her during the greater part of the spin.

There will be a call-over of the card on the St. Leger at the Victoria Club, London, at 2 o'c. to-day.

Cabin Fire Shows Great Dash

THERE were two remarkable performances at the Junction yesterday. In the Croom Steeplechase Cabin Fire, now thirteen years old, came through with great dash at the end of three miles to win by three lengths from Nonna's Cottage, who, with the pace-making Black Mask, had been prominent for most of the journey.

Mr. James Grew's Scottish Welcome made the long trip from Dundalk to win the Emily Handicap with ridiculous ease from the better backed Maritime Law and Blue Speck, the margin in his favour being fifteen lengths.

DIMINUTIVE JOCKEY

B. Sargent got quite an ovation when he took the mount on Neweneda in the Knocklong Plate, though he was not concerned with the finish. Scaling only 4 st., he is little more than three feet in height, and was having his first ride in public. He is attached to Captain Molony's stable.

The Bansha Hurdle provided the best finish of the day, the strong riding of T. McNeill being the deciding factor in keeping Beyond Recall in front to beat the fast-finishing Eagle's Home by a neck.

HARD COURT TENNIS

The Irish hard court championships were carried a stage further at Elm Park yesterday, results turning out much as one would expect. A. E. Fannin, holder of the men's singles title, was hard put to it to win the first set of his first round match against J. J. Fitzgibbon, being down 5-2 at one period; but having triumphed at length, he had little difficulty in taking the second set and match against a tiring opponent.

R. J. McCabe, who reached the final of the junior grass court championships recently, proved too good for N. O'C. Brennan, who had shown good form on Tuesday.

MEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP SINGLES

Smart Rises Among Industrials

THERE was a slight expansion in trading on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and markets made a busier showing. Irish Industrials, which attracted most attention, were in good demand, and prices generally moved in favour of holders. Some profit-taking caused a little irregularity among Home Rails.

Security Loan shed a fraction at 106½, but 4 p.c. Land Bonds improved to 108⅛. 3½ p.c. War Loan shaded off to 103 13/16. Banks held steady, and Bank of Ireland Stock made headway to 339.

Guinness units gave way to 124/6, but the Pref. advanced to 15⅛.

Great Southern prior charges met with profit-taking, and the Gtd. fell ¼ to 42½; the Deb. drooped to 63½. The Ord. held unchanged, and the Pref. moved up to 22½. Great Northern Pref. declined to 40¼.

Dublin Transport Ord. hardened to 24/4½, but Alliance Gas Ord. shed pence at 20/6. Todd, Burns Ord. were dull at 13/3, but the Pref. gained 2/4½ at 90/-.

Batchelor (Ireland) issues were supported, and the Ord. strengthened to 13/9 and the Pref. to 23/6. E. and J. Burke Pref. tended higher to 9/6, and Goulding Pref. to 26/6.

Hammond Lane Ord. spurted 2/6 to 45/-, while Irish Times 1st Pref. jumped 1/- to 86/-, and Independent "B" Ord. were raised to 77/6. Williams and Woods Ord. advanced to 28/9, and Killeen Paper Pref. hardened to 25/10½; but Irish Sugar Pref. eased to 27/7½.

Oils made a steadier showing. Burmah Ord. recovered to 80/9 and Shell Transport Ord. to 81/3, while Anglo-Iranian held 105/9.

Larger Number of New Companies

One hundred and ninety-one new companies were registered in Eire last year, says an annual report by the Department of Industry and Commerce. Forty-one companies were struck off the register and 39 were dissolved after voluntary liquidation. These figures represent a net increase during the year of 111 companies.

The number of companies on the register on December 31 last, excluding companies which were in course of liquidation or removal from the register, was 3,265. The number of private companies registered was 187.

UPWARD MOVEMENT IN STOCK EXCHANGE PRICES

RUMOURS of the capitulation of Italy (since confirmed), which were circulating all day in London yesterday, had a cheerful effect in the Stock Markets, and several good features emerged. There ensued a strong demand for Oil shares, and sharp advances offset to some extent the declines of the previous two days.

In this section the biggest jump was in Anglo-Iranian, which spurted 2s. 6d. to 107s. 6d. Burmah gained 1s. 3d. to 81s. 3d., and Shells also 1s. 3d. to 81s. 3d.

Apart from the Oil market, Gold shares provided the best features, and the fresh buying favoured West Wits., which jumped 8/9 to 10¾. Blyvoor advanced 1/3 to 88/9, Lydenburg gained 1/4½ at 31/10½, and Luipaards Vlei 6d. at 20/3. Western Reef were up 1/3 at 28/9, and Western Holdings 3d. at 37/6. Diamonds improved.

The outstanding rise of the day, however, was in Hudson Bay, which put on 4/6 to 54/6, due mainly to shortage of shares and a feeling of optimism regarding dividend prospects. Coast Lines were uncertain, following a denial by Sir Alfred Read (chairman) of the rumours concerning the acquisition of the concern by a railway company. Cinemas were still interesting, and Stoll Theatres advanced 6d. to 14/6.

British Rails were again lower, and some Argentine Ordinaries also sagged. No great change was shown in Gilt-edged.

HOTEL PROFITS

Further evidence of the recovery which has taken place in the business done by the leading London hotels is afforded by the announcement that a year's dividend is to be paid on the 6 p.c. Pref. capital of Grosvenor House (Park Lane), Ltd. The company, which has an issued capital of £1,000,000, has had a mixed career since its registration in 1928. Recovery began in 1941 and was continued through 1942 into the current year. Net profit in the year to March 31 last amounted to £183,332. This enabled the company to pay the Debenture interest and wipe out a debit balance of £47,010 and, after providing for taxation, to carry forward £13,786. When the report was issued in July it was stated that the business was showing a substantial improvement, and that since the preparation of the accounts the moratorium had been terminated. This is now followed by the announcement of the payment of one year's Pref. arrears, bringing payment up to March 8, 1940. The Ord. £1 are quoted at 12/6-13/-.

RAND SELECTION

The Rand Selection Corporation states that in accordance with the usual practice the dividend for the year to September 30 will be declared in December when the final figures and profit position are known. In order, however, to enable holders of the 5 p.c. Convertible Notes to have information on which to base their decision whether or not to exercise their conversion rights, the directors state that, on the basis of information now available, the dividend will be 40 p.c., or 2/- per share. This compares with 30 p.c. for the two past years.

The Ord. 5/- shares of the Corporation were dealt in yesterday at 41/7½. The Corporation, which has an issued capital of £1,000,000 in 5/- shares, has important investments in gold mining companies, as well as other property, valued in its last balance sheet at £3,914,426.

A substantial recovery both in profits and dividend is recorded by Initial Services, Ltd. The directors will recommend at the annual meeting a final dividend of 14 1-6 p.c., less tax, making 22½ p.c. for the year. This compares with 16 2-3 p.c. for the previous year. Previous to the war the company was paying 25 p.c., but for each of the two years to June 30, 1942, only 16 2-3 p.c. was paid.

Aggregate profits of the company and all its subsidiaries for the year to June 30 last amounted to £407,433, compared with £344,416. War conditions have produced considerable difficulties for the company in the shape of labour and supplies, while the evacuation of many concerns from London complicated the position. But it is evident that the difficulties have been overcome. The 5/- shares closed yesterday at 24/3.

The Eastern Bank, Ltd., is raising its interim dividend from 2/- per £10 share to 2/6.

The announcement of a final dividend of 7½ p.c., making 15 p.c. for the year to March 31 last, by George Swift and Sons (Holdings), Ltd., calls attention to the successful first year's operations of one of the few companies which have come into being during the war. It manufactures machines for a variety of trades and purposes, particularly sectional boilers and radiators. Net profit of the combined business was £12,298, after providing £26,099 for taxation. Of this the holding company received £10,000 in dividends. The Preference shares, which are entitled to a participating dividend up to 4 p.c. after the Ordinary shares have received 6 p.c., receive their full 10 p.c. They are quoted at 27/-. The Ordinary 4/- shares are quoted at 7/3, at which they give the useful yield of about 8¼ p.c.

The Scottish Ceylon Tea Company is paying a final dividend of 6 p.c., making 10 p.c. for the year 1942. This compares with 8 p.c. for 1941 and 10 p.c. for 1940. Profits in 1942 totalled £54,018 (against £33,858).

Gas Company Compensated for Explosion

THE accounts of the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company for the half-year ended June 30 last show a profit on the revenue account of £70,620, to which must be added £4,250, balance of income tax reclaimed; £15,500 amount recovered from insurers in respect of explosion damage to carbonising plant, and £1,141, surplus transferred from special purposes fund, making a total of £91,511. From this must be deducted £7,480, interest on Debenture stock; £4,512, interest on temporary loans, and £3,000, reserve for income tax, leaving a balance of £76,519 to be set off against the loss of £81,735 brought from last account. A resulting adverse balance of £5,216 remains to be carried forward.

The directors recommend the payment of a dividend on the Consolidated Ord. stock of £1 per cent. (actual), less tax. This will absorb £17,674, and will involve the withdrawal of £22,890 from the reserve fund.

A dividend of 2½ per cent. for the same period last year involved the withdrawal of £22,092 from reserve. That was the sole payment for 1942, compared with a total of 5 per cent. for 1941.

Comparing the revenue account with that for the same period of 1942, the manufacture of gas cost £363,848 (against £365,882), while sales of gas increased from £361,839 to £385,979. Residual products brought in £134,649 (against £91,850).

A further improvement is shown in the value of stocks on hand. Coals, oil, coke, etc., which were entered at £81,621 on June 30, 1942, rose to £143,584 by the end of 1942, and they are now valued at £162,113.

The half-yearly meeting will be held at the company's offices on Thursday, September 23, at 2 p.m.

The shares closed 6d. lower at 20/6 on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday.

Her teeth are YOUR concern

Every mother wants her children to grow up with strong, firm white teeth, safe from the danger of decay. The way to make sure of this is by giving the right care when they are young. Dentists advise the use of the one toothpaste containing 'Milk of Magnesia'*, which corrects acid mouth, so often the cause of dental trouble.

The toothpaste to ask for is Phillips' Dental Magnesia. Train your children to use it night and morning. They love its pleasant, mild flavour.

Sold everywhere 7½d., 1/1d. and 1/10½d.

Pensioner tells how Fynnon Salt relieved his leg pains

"Nine weeks ago," writes an old-age pensioner, "I had a severe attack of sciatica—my first. The first four weeks I could not put my foot to the ground. Reading in my daily paper of the good results someone had derived from Fynnon Salt, I decided to try a tin. After 8 days I could put my foot to the ground a bit with the aid of two sticks walk about a little. On the 14th day of treatment I needed only one stick, and have now discarded that, and moreover I am back at work (casual). I am a pensioner so you will know I am not a boy!"

Fynnon Salt helps to purify the bloodstream, flushes liver and kidneys, eliminates from the body the toxins which contribute to rheumatism and sciatica. Large tin 1/6. Get yourself a tin right away!

Take Fynnon Salt if you have

Mother! Child's Best Laxative is 'California Syrup of Figs'

Children love the pleasant taste of 'California Syrup of Figs,' and gladly take it even when bilious, feverish, sick or constipated. No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and moves the bowels without cramping or over-acting. Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative.

Tell your chemist you want 'California Syrup of Figs,' which has full directions for babies and children of all ages. Obtainable everywhere at 1/3 and 2/6.

New Make Up Technique Scores with Active Women

Active women—and nowadays that means most women—are all enthusiastic about the new make up method which banishes that smart woman's nightmare—shiny skin. They've found that liquid make up foundation stays matt through the hardest day.

'SHINY SKIN' BUGBEAR BANISHED

BECAUSE the ordinary face cream base is itself shiny, make up in which it is used can't be expected to stay matt once the powder surface wears off. Every woman knew this, and the out-of-doors woman knew that, in warm weather especially the powder surface wore off all too quickly and enforced on her the necessity for frequent 'repair work' with a powder puff.

Until recently there was no remedy for this, but the introduction in America of a liquid foundation has solved the problem. The new make up technique quickly swept the United States and since its introduction into Ireland has been steadily growing in popularity as women who cared about their appearance (and what woman doesn't?) discovered its many advantages.

The new powder base—Miner's Liquid Make Up Foundation—is quickly and easily applied, goes on smoothly, hides minor skin blemishes completely, and stays matt. One application lasts all day, even under trying conditions. Leading chemists now have supplies, in five shades—Naturel, Rachel, Dark Rachel, Blonde Tan and Brunette Tan—at 8d and 1/9.

POND'S POWDER

It is so easy to be wasteful without being aware of it; if you keep to the economy hints below they will help to make your precious Pond's Powder last much longer. Pond's is the finest powder made, perfect skin-matching by the colourscope makes it non-detectable. So use it sparingly and help to make supplies last.

READ—AND KEEP—THESE ECONOMY HINTS

Before opening your new Pond's emergency pack, carefully tap the powder towards the bottom of the pack. This will prevent loss of powder when you open the container.

Transfer your Pond's powder to a powder bowl. You will then be able to fill your compact without loss. Don't overfill either your powder bowl or your compact.

Use a compact with a perfect fitting lid. Open it and close it as gently as possible. This prevents the powder blowing around.

If you use a powder box on your dressing table, make a hole in its lid with a large pin. This prevents loss of powder when opening or closing the box.

HARD TO GET—BUT STILL—YOUR PASSPORT TO BEAUTY

Indigestion* & FLATULENCE AFTER MEALS

The reason why you get that burning pain and distressing wind after meals is because your stomach is always too acid. It sours everything you eat. Food simply can't digest and your stomach is tortured in the attempt.

Why endure this mealtime misery when 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets will stop it this very day? They relieve acidity and sweeten a sour stomach at once. The stomach starts digesting your food right away and finishes its work with perfect ease. You feel nothing—no heartburn, no flatulence, not a twinge of your old stomach pain.

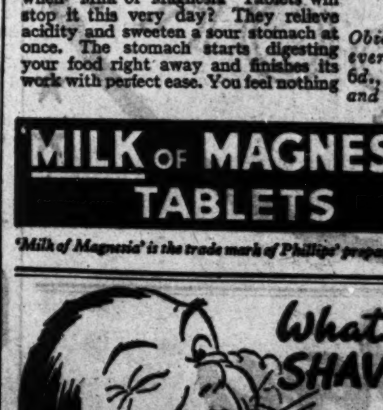

If you suffer from acute attacks of gastric pain 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets will stop them in five minutes. Try them to-day!

Obtainable everywhere. 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 3/6.
